Since 2010 Visionbox Studio has been offering student and professional actors in Colorado training rooted in graduate-level curriculum, taught by theatre professionals.

Jennifer McCray Rincón, Founding Artistic Director, is a graduate of Yale University and the Yale School of Drama Directing Program. She was the Head of Acting at the National Theatre Conservatory at the DCPA from 1991-2008.

Each summer the company assembles an extraordinary team of nationally recognized professional artists to teach acting, singing, voice and speech, movement, and intermedia design to high school and college age students in three two-week intensives. These intensives help all students grow as creative artists while also preparing them for college and graduate school auditions and applications. We are thrilled to announce these intensives will be in residence at MCA Denver at the Holiday Theater!

Each class will take place Monday-Friday between 9am-4pm on the following dates:

- Acting Intensive 1 | June 17th-June 28th
Realism: Chekhov and Tennessee Williams
- Acting Intensive 2 | July 8th - July 19th
Shakespeare
- Production Intensive 3 | July 22nd - August 2nd
Contemporary Performance & Intermedia Design

To apply go to www.visionbox.org. All students and parents will have the opportunity to audition/interview with Jennifer McCray Rincón and the Visionbox Team.
